

About Glory Light Ensemble

Craig Barnes received his music training largely from the University of Illinois School of Music in flute and voice. Supplemental training in flute was with members of the flute section of the Chicago Civic Opera and, later with Donald Peck, principle flutist of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

His wife, Joy, is largely self taught in piano and organ. Additional piano training came from Andrews University and organ training from Luane Logan of Highland Academy. Their music can be heard on Glory Light Radio (glorylight.org).

Craig had thought at one point that he may have been headed toward a career in playing the flute, but God's original plan¹ for him to enter the ministry did come to fruition². They both performed for five years with Jubilate Singers and the Nashville Symphony Chorus before entering the ministry.

Currently, Craig is president of Glory Light Foundation, Inc. (501c3), pastor of Glory Light Chapel, and speaker of Glory Light Radio through Glory Light Ministries. His messages can be heard all over the world on internet radio through their website glorylight.org as well as on his Glory Light Chapel channel on YouTube. He speaks regularly in various church(es) in the Nashville area and also in other state(s). Together with his wife, Joy, Glory Light Ensemble performs in conjunction with their ministry.

We are merely two amateur musicians who love the Lord and worship God, addressing Him in prayerful music. We encourage those who care enough to "listen in" on our communication with God. As Jesus was neither elated by applause nor dejected by censure or disappointment³, we encourage you to express your appreciation to Him by simply saying "Amen".

1 He received the call to ministry from God when he was nine years old.

2 He received ministerial training from prolific evangelist Elder Ron Halvorson through the Kentucky-Tennessee Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, resulting in the designation of Pastor by the that same Conference. This has been followed by 25 years of ministry after accepting a full-time position as Chaplain of Cave Springs Home for handicapped and pastor of Cave Springs Seventh-day Adventist Church. Craig retired from full-time ministry in 2015 and continues serving with music, radio, and Glory Light Chapel, having live stream speaking services on Sabbaths and Wednesday nights.
